

Jamie Thompson

I am a 21 year old developer based outside of Christchurch interested in furthering my knowledge and experience within the field. I have had an interest in programming for as long as I can remember and over the past 4 years, I have significantly improved my knowledge and skillset via both self-taught and tertiary study.

I am very much willing to learn new languages & technologies in order to better fit a role and have found myself to be relatively fast at picking up new skills.
